THE LEGEND OF THE SINGING RIVER...

In the legend of the Singing River a Princess from the Biloxi Indians fell in love with the Chief of the Pascagoula Indians. In response to this supposed treachery, the chief of the aggressive Biloxi tribe declared war on the peaceful Pascagoula tribe. Rather than face war, enslavement, and possibly death under Biloxi's rule, the Pascagoula Indians waded into the river hand-in-hand singing their song of death. With this ultimate sacrifice, the river was transformed into the Singing River. Some say they can still be heard singing on late summer and fall evenings.

HISTORIC PASCAGOULA BIKE TRAIL

In 2011, the Historic Pascagoula Bike Trail was established providing residents and visitors with historic tour of the City. Come take a family outing or a peaceful break alone by exploring our Historic Pascagoula Bike Trail. People of all ages and abilities can enjoy a unique combination of cycling, nature, history, and coastal culture.

While reaping the many health benefits of cycling, you can experience a distinctive look at many historic points of interest in our city. Among these are the LaPointe Krebs House, which is the oldest standing building in the Mississippi Valley; Jimmy Buffett's childhood home and the site where Faulkner is said to have written Intruder in the Dust. There is much more to see, so take time to come and experience what make our residents proud to call historic Pascagoula their home! Mayor Blevins has officially declared May 2014 Bike Month in the City of Pascagoula.

Recently, a Bicycle Advisory Committee (BAC) was formed to further guide bike-related development as well as work to enhance and promote biking in Pascagoula. If you would like more information on the committee, please contact the Outdoor Recreational Specialist, Kristi Ducote, at kducote@cityofpascagoula.com or 228- 938-2356.
